What is Long Term Care?

Long term care involves services that meet a person’s health or personal care needs. Services help people live as independently and safely as possible. Long term care can be provided in the home by a paid or unpaid caregiver, in a community location such as an adult day care, or in a facility such as a nursing home or assisted living facility.

What’s Your Family’s Plan?

Long term care will be a necessity for many Marylanders. Families should begin conversations about planning for long term care early and should include as many family members as possible.

A Starter Kit for Discussions about Long Term Care

Severe and unexpected injuries can happen at any time to anyone.

- What happens if Grandma falls and breaks her hip?
- How will she be cared for?
- Will Mom have to quit work to care for Grandma?
- How will the bills be paid if Mom can’t work?
- Does our family have enough financial resources to pay for care?

Questions like these and others should be discussed early and in multi-generational family meetings.

Did you know that:

- 70% of people who turn 65 today will need long term care in their lifetime.
- 20% will require long term care for more than five years.
Why Planning for Long Term Care Matters
It’s important to prepare for long term care services early. Having knowledge about the services available and the costs of long term care before an unexpected illness or accident occurs can help reduce undue stress, so that you can make an informed decision.

Consider the following:
For a caregiver, the financial impact from a long-term care event can be massive

Approximately 33% of caregivers provide 30 hours – or more – of care per week to a loved one who needs long term care. Half of those who provide caregiving estimate that they lost around 33% of their income. If a long term care event lasts an average of three years, that’s potentially a full year’s worth of income lost during a single long term care event.

The cost of long term care varies widely by state and region:
Refer to the chart on page 6 for the median costs in Maryland.

Options to address long term care can be any combination of the following:
- Using income and assets
- Receiving help from family and friends
- Using home equity (reverse mortgage)
- Utilizing private and public social programs
- Residing in a Continuing Care Retirement Community (CCRC)
- Purchasing Long Term Care Insurance

Long Term Care Insurance Policies
Long term care insurance can cover all or some of the cost for long term care and is available in multiple forms.

Knowing the desires of an individual in need of care is important.

It's also important to know how willing family and friends are to help with care and finances to plan for long term care.

Top 4 Reasons to Purchase LTC Insurance

- Not wanting to be a financial burden on family
- Financial security and peace of mind
- To cover the cost of services in the future
- To protect assets
PLAN NOW: How to Choose Long Term Care

Step 1: Choosing the Type of Care

Care Settings: Pros and Cons

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Pros</th>
<th>Cons</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Living with a family member</td>
<td>Moving in with a loved one to receive care can be a comfortable, familiar option. The individual can enjoy time with family and feel happier and more satisfied.</td>
<td>Family members who provide care may become emotionally and financially burned out, especially if they also work full time and/or are also caring for children and grandchildren in the home.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>At-home care</td>
<td>The care recipient can remain in a comfortable, familiar environment and maintain some independence. Various support services can help provide the needed care.</td>
<td>Depending on the level of care needed, support services can be costly, especially during nights and weekends. At-home care personnel are typically paid by the hour.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adult Medical Day Care</td>
<td>This type of care allows the older adult to live at home or with a family member, but also remain engaged, active, and safe while the primary caregiver works.</td>
<td>The individual might need transportation to and from the adult daycare center. A full day of activities may prove exhausting.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assisted Living Facility</td>
<td>In this type of facility, the older adult can receive tailored care, with services ranging from assistance with chores to hands-on care. Living near and socializing with others is known to improve wellbeing and happiness.</td>
<td>Individuals may feel sadness or depression because of being separated from their home and loved ones, along with the loss of independence. Assisted living facilities are not covered by Medicare and often require the use of personal finances.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nursing Home</td>
<td>Living in a full-time facility ensures immediate access to medical-grade nursing care. Many (but not all) services are covered by Medicare.</td>
<td>Moving into a nursing home can be a difficult transition. The transition can lead to loneliness, frustration and even depression. Nursing homes can be quite costly, and not all costs are covered by Medicare.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hospice</td>
<td>Hospice care provides much-needed comfort and assistance in the final stages of life. Most care is provided in the patient's home. Limited service is provided in a hospice facility. Hospice services are covered by Medicare and Medicaid.</td>
<td>Hospice settings are for individuals with serious medical issues who are terminally ill. Terminal illness must be diagnosed by a doctor, and the individual must be determined by the doctor to be in his or her last 6 months of life.</td>

Continuing Care Retirement Communities

A Continuing Care Retirement Community (CCRC) is a community where residents can live while receiving different levels of care as their needs change.

Although each CCRC is unique, generally a resident can start out living independently in an apartment and later move to assisted living to get more help with daily activities. If the resident needs skilled nursing to receive more medical care, he or she can move to the nursing facility. Residents may stay in the same community the whole time.

Limited Admissions:

CCRCs may limit admission into the assisted living and the skilled nursing units to current residents of their independent living units.

The Discussion

When your family experiences a major event or change, it’s important to have a new family meeting to discuss whether this impacts your long term care needs.

Examples of major changes are graduation from school, childbirth, marriage, divorce, retirement, unemployment, and unexpected health issues.

Have a family meeting BEFORE one is needed

Listen to everyone’s ideas

Be respectful of everyone's feelings

Allow all family members to contribute

Ice Breakers
If a family meeting happens for the first time when someone in the family suddenly requires long term care, discussions may be more difficult because emotions are strong.

You can still discuss needs, but your emotions may affect your ability to think logically and make clear decisions.

As we pass through the various phases of our lives, our ability to care for ourselves changes

Advanced Directives
In addition to discussions on long term care, other family issues can be discussed at the same meetings, including end-of-life issues and advanced medical directives. An advanced directive is a useful legal document that allows you to choose someone to make health care decisions for you in the event you are unable to do so, and outline what end of life treatments you do or do not want to undergo.

If you decide to name someone to act on your behalf, that individual is referred to as a health care agent. He or she can make any decisions authorized in the advanced directive. Section I of the advance directive form states your selections and outlines the authority given to the health care agent. Section II enables you to create a living will which describes your wishes on what types of treatments you wish to receive and the treatments you do not want to have.

You do not need a lawyer to complete an advanced directive. Information on completing an advanced directive can be found on the Maryland Quality Reporting website under Advanced Directives.

Follow-up Questions after Considering a Care Plan

If the desire is to stay in one's own home

Which family members will be able to help with care giving?

Will that family member(s) be compensated in any way?

Are there friends willing to help and will they be compensated in any way?

Will you accept help from professional caregivers to complement care you receive from family and friends? If so, how will this care be paid?

If the desire is to stay with family

Which family members would you prefer to stay with?

Will that family member(s) be compensated in any way?

Would you be willing to stay part of the year with one family member and part of the year with another family member?

Would you be willing to go to Adult Day Care during the day?

If the desire is to stay with friends

Will the friend(s) agree to help with care?

Will that friend(s) be compensated in any way?

Would you be willing to stay part of the year with one friend and part of the year with another friend?

Would you be willing to go to Adult Day Care during the day?

If the desire or need is to stay at an Assisted Living Facility

Would you prefer it to be located near a family member or friend?

How will the facility be paid?

Congratulations!
You have had “the conversation.” Hopefully, it is the first of many. You can use the following questions to consider how your first talk went, and to think about what you’d like to talk about in future conversations.

What do you want to remember?
What do you want your loved ones to remember?
How did this conversation make you feel?
Is there something you need to clarify that you feel was misunderstood or misinterpreted?
Who do you want to talk to next time?
Are there people who should hear things at the same time (like siblings who tend to disagree)?
Cost is an important consideration when choosing a long term care setting. It’s helpful to know the median costs for care, which vary by state and are increasing annually.

Anticipated inflation can also affect the decision-making process.

Costs can vary widely by facility type. Daily rates for Maryland adult day care, assisted living, nursing homes and home health facilities are available on the Maryland Quality Reports website:

Step 3: Review of Family and Financial Resources

In any family, family resources and financial resources can vary greatly. One family may have a non-working spouse that has time available and is able to provide help, which can lower the cost of care. Another family may have more financial resources available and is able to contribute more monetarily.

Knowing the resources available is important in planning. Use the Family and Financial Resources table to begin estimating cost. As you calculate costs, consider inflation over time.

Step 4: Compare Expenses and Assets

Using the information from Steps 1, 2 and 3, determine the difference in expenses and assets to cover the costs of long term care. As you calculate costs, consider inflation over time.

Comparing Expenses and Assets

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Step 1: Determine type of care</th>
<th>Today's Value</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Step 2: Estimated costs</td>
<td>$ _________</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Step 3: Subtract Total Resources</td>
<td>$ _________</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Difference

*$This is the additional money you will need
Step 5: Collect Important Information

Collect important information and keep it in one place so that you can quickly access it when you need it.

- Decide who will be responsible for gathering, updating, and safeguarding information.
- Update the information annually.
- Keep the information in a secure place.

Make sure that confidential information is kept secure.

Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services
Medicare is health insurance for people who are age 65 or older, under 65 with certain disabilities, or any person with End-Stage Renal Disease (ESRD).

Many people still believe that Medicare or private health insurance will cover long term care services if they need them, but except for brief stays in nursing homes following a hospital stay, Medicare does not cover long term care.
